

Optimize Your Options When Moving Out of the Area

Don't rely on strangers for your real estate needs!

The average person moves about 12 times in their lifetime.¹ If you're planning to move to a new community, whether it's across the state or across the country, it's important to have a real estate agent you can trust.

If you — or a friend or family member — are moving out of the area, I can help!

I'm part of the Buffini Referral Network, an exclusive network for real estate professionals who are committed to providing value to their clients before, during and after the transaction. This powerful network of agents sells 1 out of every 8 homes in North America. Knowing you'll work with an agent who gives the same great service you've come to expect from me offers peace of mind as you search for a home in a new, unfamiliar community.

Because moving can be a stressful process, let me help ease the transition by putting you in touch with a local expert. I can refer a real estate professional who offers the level of service I do. If you, or a friend or a family member are considering moving out of the area, give me a call and I'll take care of the rest.

BUFFINI
Referral Network™

Why work with a Buffini Referral Network agent?

Buffini Referral Network agents are consummate professionals and our clients mean the world to us. We serve as trusted advisors to our clients throughout the real estate transaction and offer recommendations to reputable trade or service providers after the sale has closed.

- ✓ We have exceptionally high standards and are committed to providing world class service, expert negotiations, and effective communication.
- ✓ We work by referral. Most of our clients are referred to us by other happy clients.
- ✓ We all have a proven track record and produce results.
- ✓ We represent "The Best of the Best" in the real estate industry.

SOURCE: 1. U.S. Census Bureau

